[redacted] Sam Scott, Senate Internal Security Subcommittee staff, requested that copies of the so-called "terrorism manual" believed to have been published in Communist China entitled "Sabotage Warfare: Work of Destruction and Booklets, the Open and Secret Work of the Party" (25 pages in Spanish), and the Portuguese translations from Mao Tse Tung's "The Strategic Problems of the Revolutionary War in China" which provides instruction on how to seize power, if available, be provided for use of the Subcommittee.

[redacted] I advised Mr. Scott I would check the matter and be back in touch with him.

Mr. Scott also requested advice for the Subcommittee as to the correctness or approximate correctness of the figures used in the Al Burt article from the MIAMI HERALD (reprinted in the WASHINGTON POST on Sunday, 9 December). In this same connection advice was requested whether it would be possible to get a top level Agency witness to appear in Subcommittee hearing probably in January, who could update these figures and the figures previously given some years ago on Communist strength in Latin America. Advised Mr. Scott I did not believe an Agency witness could be made available at this time but this item would also be checked.
